

Supplemental Experience

An example of some experience I've had working with large data can be seen in a case study that I was assigned while interviewing for Curology, a health-tech startup in San Diego, in 2015. The case study that I was assigned required that I make sense of a data dump of information on subscribers (roughly 17,000). It is paired with 4 questions that I can make inferences on by using said data (I have attached the files for your review). I worked solely on Excel at the time.

Case Study Prompt: This is the original request made by the interviewing team.

Illustrative Data Dump: This is the original form of the data

Curology Case Study Presentation: My final results on the data in Powerpoint Presentation

Curology Case Study Data Final: My final manipulated data sheet